

Katerina Katsouli is a specialized consultant in Sustainable Development (ESG & Sustainability Principal at Grant Thornton).

She holds a degree in Economics from the University of Athens and a Master of Science in International Economic Relations from the University of Mannheim in Germany. Since 2007, she has specialized in sustainability and sustainable development, leading the implementation of related projects for major Greek and multinational companies.

She has extensive experience in developing sustainability strategies, policies, and processes, as well as in preparing annual Sustainability Reports in accordance with international standards. She is also experienced in designing and delivering a wide range of training programs. In addition, she supports organizations in areas such as responsible supply chain management, measuring their socio-economic impact, and ESG evaluations by international sustainability indices.

She has collaborated—and continues to collaborate—with international organizations such as EFRAG, United Nations Global Compact, Global Reporting Initiative, Integrated Reporting Council, and UNEP Finance Initiative. She is also certified in training on GRI Standards and the Integrated Reporting Framework <IR>.

She was the only Greek participant in the Technical Expert Group of EFRAG, contributing her extensive experience to the development of the new European Sustainability Reporting Standards (ESRS).

She is an elected member of the Board of Directors of Global Compact Network Greece and serves as an alternate board member of CSR Hellas (the Greek partner network of CSR Europe).
