

VASILIKI KALAMPOKIDOU

With over 20 years of professional experience and in Certification Industry, since 1999, she serves as Vice President of Systems Certification at TÜV NORD Hellas, with deep expertise in international standards and management systems. She has worked extensively as a consultant in management systems and organizational restructuring for both private and public sectors, delivering improved performance, compliance, and operational efficiency. Recognized for her strong organizational and communication skills, she combines strategic vision with a client-centric approach and an ability to think beyond conventional frameworks. Through the guidance of her team, more than ten new certification schemes have been successfully designed and implemented, strengthening service innovation and market presence. She is known for fostering high-performing teams and building trusted partnerships, translating complex requirements into practical, value-driven solutions that support sustainable growth, while actively promoting ESG principles and the integration of social standards into organizational practices.